My holiday in Samoa.

The sun was high in the sky. There was a nice blue sea. It was still as a mirror. I felt the nice sand under my soft feet to touch. I can smell the fresh beautiful flowers from the island. In the morning I was hunting fish for tea with my brother. Trees stood still like statues. The sun was so bright. The sky seemed to shine on me. I went in the sea wearing goggles to look for one fish. The fish came closer and closer to me. I stared at it. For one minute, three minutes maybe even a hundred we stared at one another. Then my brother grabbed a net and we caught the fish together. Next I played in the sparkly sand until the moon came up and then I walked home to my hotel. I felt happy because I caught some fish.

My Special Holiday.

As the sun shone high in the sky I could see the rainbow shining through the clouds. The sand was blowing madly and the wind was howling loudly through the trees. I was catching fish with a fishing rod and sandy water was under my feet. I felt cold and hot at the same time. When you go fishing you don't need words. Next we went into the woods where the blackest things were. I could even laugh out loud. In the woods I found a furry possum hiding in the bush. I was silent and for a moment I listened. "Wewewewe" screeched the possum. Then I caught the possum and went home excited to have caught my first possum.

On the 12th of August some Chinese visitors came to our school. We had to welcome them with our kapa haka powhiri. As soon as the visitors walked through the doors we screamed our hardest and got all the actions perfect. We sang our welcome song to them. Then they sang their national anthem to us. After that the kaeas had to shake their hands & we went back to class. Mrs Lourie was explaining what we were going to do then they walked into our room, Alice, Wendy & Charlotte. We showed them how to cup stack & played ping pong. The lady who was the student's English translator was really good at table tennis. They taught us to count to 5 in Chinese and we taught them how to count to five in Te Reo. We took some photos & had fruit break. We had morning tea and we saw a different group in the staff room, they took a few photos of us and they left. So that's pretty much how that went. It was a really interesting experience.
